IN the Eagle this week
All they put in is
"I am sick as the devil
Send for McGinnis;
It sticks in my craw,
That doggerel verse,
And Republican doctors
Agree I am worse."

MESSRS. HECHINGER & Co., on Saturday sold at retail something over $1,600 worth of clothing.

HON. W. B. FLEMING spoke to a large audience at the court house last night. He is a fine speaker and struck from the shoulder. He was warmly applauded.

THE doggerel verse sticks in the Eagle's craw. That is where it is intended to stick, and it was made indigestible purposely. It is a "Rough on Eagles" medicine.

We have reliable information from Boyd County that Powers will have a majority there. Culbertson, it is conceded, could have carried it by six hundred, but Mr. Wadsworth cannot under any circumstances control the Republican vote in the county.

A nut for Mr. Wadsworth's friends to crack is that he voted against the war protective tariff of 1861, which the Republican campaign orators are so fond of declaring "accomplished such grand results." He got as near as he could to "free trade" in those days.

FRANK JONES, a Government employe and an assistant of Lt. M. Wright, of bull dog revolver fame, has been arrested at Cincinnati, for forgery and stealing pistols. He is on the road to the penitentiary where the whole corrupt lot would go if they received their deserts.

In the Circuit Court, Tuesday, Robert Garrison (colored) was convicted of carrying concealed a deadly weapon and his punishment fixed at a fine of $100 and confinement in jail ten days. If Garrison fails to pay his fine he is to be put at hard labor for one hundred days. The case of the Commonwealth against Marshall Boston, charged with rape, will come up for trial to-day. Boston was convicted at the April term and his punishment fixed at ten years confinement in the penitentiary, but the Court of Appeals reversed this decision.

When This Fierce Election Fight is Over.

When the Presidential contest, now waged so fiercely, ends on November 4th, the public mind, now excited, will take a rest, content that the country is saved—no matter who shall win—but then will be an opportunity to win a fortune of $75,000 by investing in the 174th grand monthly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, at New Orleans, on Tuesday, November 11th. The particulars can be had of M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La.

SEVERAL weeks ago G. W. Sloan, of Montgomery County, father of Kelley Sloan, now confined in the jail here on the charge of murder, was arrested in this city and delivered to officers from Mt. Sterling to answer the accusation of selling two head of cattle that did not belong to him and appropriating the money to his own use. He was tried for the offense at Mt. Sterling and held over to the Circuit Court. On Monday, about daylight, the jailer hearing the cries of some of the prisoners, hastened to the jail door and learned that Sloan had hanged himself in his cell by means of a rope made from a blanket. He was cut down and life was restored after considerable difficulty.

THE following is from the Ashland Express: "If the Republican swell heads of Mason County who slaughtered Culbertson, and thrust Wadsworth upon the party, could realize the deflection in their ranks, they would conclude that it was about time to withdraw the Mason statesman. The theft of the nomination and attempt to 'kill Culbertson has soured on the stomachs of hundreds of the party throughout the district."

The nomination appears to have soured even on the men who forced it upon the party. They see that Mr. Wadsworth's boasted magnetism and great name are far from sufficient to pull him through, and if they spoke the truth they would acknowledge the mistake they have made. The triumphant march to victory promised is not to be fulfilled. They see it and feel that there is nothing to be done except to chase the office down by the regular Republican methods and everybody knows what they are. But they will be met everywhere, and their agents in each county will be checked and discomfited.

THE WILD WEST.

A Picturesque and Striking Portrayal of Frontier Life.

There is a fascination about everything, "Buffalo Bill," (Hon. William F. Cody) says or does, owing partly to the positive, sturdy character of the man and partly to the wild, adventurous life he has led as hunter, guide, scout, warrior and Government officer. The story of his life is replete with romantic incident, hair-breadth escape and chivalrous devotion. As an actor and depicter of the wild scenes of border life he ranks deservedly high, and everywhere he has performed since he left his adventurous out-door life for the more peaceful life of the stage, he has been met with a popular enthusiasm accorded to none other, and no matter how many times he appears in the same place, or in what role he solicits patronage, the largest halls are too small to meet the demand of his admirers.

Possibly for this reason Buffalo Bill has made a new departure the present season in the organization of his "Wild West" combination for out door exhibitions, and in doing so has made a most successful hit. In styling it "America's National Entertainment," the managers struck upon a most felicitous designation. It is, says the Boston Herald, thoroughly American. Every act performed represents something distinctively characteristic of American life and is redolent of the soil. As a means of affording a genuine entertainment, the exhibition can not be questioned. The picturesque appearance of the hunters, trappers and cowboys, the Indians in their vari-colored costumes and war paint, the free, powerful and graceful movements of the horses and the striking picture made by the camp, with its rude tents and primitive appliances, were most pleasing to the eye, while the wonderful feats of daring and skill performed called for spontaneous expression of wonder and admiration. It is difficult to disabuse the public of the idea that this entertainment is a "show." It is hardly possible to make the public, which is so used to seeing acting actors represent all classes and conditions of men—believe that the men who appear in these exhibitions represent only themselves in their own proper characters, assuming nothing foreign to the ordinary life when at home, and exaggerating nothing for the sake of effect. If those who doubt the reality of the scenes presented by these men will pause and consider for a moment, they will find themselves compelled to admit that Buffalo Bill and his comrades are by no means actors. They simply appear just as they are; nothing more, nothing less. It would be something impossible to produce this entertainment with principals who were trained to play certain parts. The work done here is not the result of rehearsal, it is not acting, it is nature itself. While there is nothing theatrical about the exhibition, it possesses in the highest degree the dramatic element. The attack upon the Deadwood coach, for instance, is a thrilling and realistic scene which it would be simply impossible to reproduce upon the stage of a theatre. The coach, now old, weather beaten and battered by the rough treatment it had when in actual service, is driven by Mr. Fred. Matthews, who has held the ribbons on many a long and dangerous journey, and Mr. John Nelson, who sits on the roof with his hands upon his "shooting irons," has many a time risked his life, and made his foes run greater risks, while perched upon this same place, guarding the lives and treasure entrusted to his care from the depredations of Indians and lawless road agents. The Indians who rush out of ambush to attack the coach are not "supers" painted up, but the untrifled article, and it may not be doing some of them an injustice, judging from their looks, to say this method of attacking their natural enemies is not new to them. The attack and repulse lack reality only in the absence of real bullets in the revolvers and guns, a little omission which the "tender-feet" will no doubt gladly overlook. Realism could not be carried farther.

PERSONALS.

A little son of Mr. George Beasley is very ill.

Mr. James H. Hall is so much improved in health as to be able to leave his room.

Misses Annie and Myra Myall, of Mayslick; Lula Woolums, of Lexington, and Carrie Buckler, are visiting Mr. Sam Riley.

The game of base ball at Washington, Tuesday afternoon, between the Bright Lights, of that place and the Elites, of Shannon, was called on account of darkness at the end of the fifth inning, the Elites being two ahead. Base hits were made by Messrs. Cole, H. Stevenson, Parry and Wheatly, and home runs by Messrs. Gault, Parry, Tudor and G. Stevenson. Mr. Hal Wood was the umpire.

THE TOBACCO CROP.

Critical Condition of the Burley Crop in Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Department of Agriculture has the following regarding the tobacco crop of Kentucky and other sections of the country: The tobacco crop is in a most critical condition, and a large part of burley is liable to be lost.

No fire is used in curing this species of tobacco. It must have free ventilation during the curing process, for if too much crowded and the weather is warm it is liable to rot. Farmers are in the midst of the cutting season. Their tobacco houses are over crowded and the weather is extremely hot, and it is feared that a large part of the burley will be seriously injured if not entirely ruined.

In the districts in which the heavier grades are raised there is not as much danger, as these classes of tobacco are dried and cured by fire. Aside from this report are generally very favorable both as to yield and quality. Although a number of counties suffered from dry weather, in Virginia and Maryland the drought is more damaging, and there is considerable complaint of its effects in a number of counties in North Carolina. In some cases premature drying of leaf caused it to be light, but in general there is not much complaint on the quality. In portions of Kentucky and Missouri some crops have suffered from excess of rain at the time of cutting. A considerable part of the crop, however, is housed in all except the most Northern States.

PROTECTION VS. FREE TRADE.

The Campaign in Louisiana the Warmest Ever Known.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—The Democratic canvass in the Third Congressional District is the most earnest ever seen in the State. The district has been strongly Republican, the majority in 1882 being 9,088. Gay, the Democratic candidate, is a wealthy sugar planter, and formerly was classed as a Republican. He is running wholly on the protection platform. If elected he will act with the Democrats except when anti-tariff legislation is attempted, when he may be expected to bolt. In the attempt to form a new party opposed to Republicans and free trade Democrats, the Republicans have weakened their cause by selecting as their candidate Kellogg, who is unpopular with a large class. This contest arouses great interest. Gay held three meetings in Thibodaux yesterday, one for Gay and Blaine, which were among the largest ever seen in Southwest Louisiana. The old system of barbecues has been re-established, the negroes in the district devouring the beef, mutton and hogs by the dozen. The triumph of Gay would undoubtedly strengthen the protectionists of Louisiana.

THIRTY-THREE YEARS ABSENT.

A Father with a Fortune Returns for His Family.

WORTH, Ga., Oct. 22.—Thirty-three years ago, when the California gold fever was at its height, there lived in this county a young man named Wilson, who had a pretty young wife and child. A quarrel between the couple caused the husband to go to California. A few years later it was announced that he was dead. The widow remarried and the grave in California was forgotten.

Last week there arrived in this city a gentleman about fifty-five years of age, evidently a man of means, who began inquiry about the old families. It was the long absent husband who was appointed Commissioner for California at the New Orleans Exposition, and who was anxious to make up with his wife. He found his son, who is married and the father of a family, and has furnished them means to join him in California, where, it is said, he is a millionaire. Mr. Wilson continued on his way to New Orleans.

COUNTERFEITERS.

Four Arrested While Making the Spurious Coin.

THOY, O., Oct. 22.—For several months past counterfeit silver coin has, at occasional intervals, made its appearance in and about here and Piqua (Miami County). The intervals were of sufficient recurrence to cause suspicion that either the counterfeiters or the circulators of the coin belonged in the neighborhood of one of the two places. The Government authorities put agents to work to locate and detect the guilty parties. This ended in the discovery and arrest of a gang of counterfeiters. The officers caught them in the act of making the coin. The arrest was made late Saturday night at a dwelling house two miles south of here. Four men were arrested, giving their names as John Hyre, Jack Mack, Hope Key, and George Clark. Two of them live at Tippecanoe. The officers secured a shot bag full of counterfeit silver coin and some moulds, patterns, and dies. The men were brought here to jail and will have a hearing before a United States Commissioner.

A COFFERDAM BURST.

And Almost Submerges the Town of Ansonia, Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—Monday night about twenty of the inhabitants of the lower part of the village of Ansonia were placed in great fright. The dam supplying the Ansonia Brass and Copper Company has for the past three weeks been undergoing repairs. To do this it was necessary to build a cofferdam. Suddenly and without warning the latter burst in the center, and about twenty feet of it was washed away. The large reservoir containing nearly two hundred acres of water gave way and rushed with fearful impetus down the channel. The alarm spread and the families occupying the tenements to the number of about 100 escaped to higher ground, leaving their dwellings to the mercy of the rushing torrent. So far as learned no lives were lost, but the damage to the buildings will prove extensive as scores of them were submerged.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—Judge Stanley Matthews' opinion in the case of the State against the Pullman Palace Car Company, brought to compel the Company to pay a privilege tax on the cars, was announced in the Federal Court yesterday. The Court holds that such tax can be collected only on cars run exclusively in the State, and not those running through the State.

Two Dollars Raised to Twenty-Five.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 22.—Last night two men named Leblanc and Bail were arrested for passing a Dominion twenty-five dollar note which had been raised from a two-dollar bill by the letter 'o' having been cut out and the word "five" pasted after the figure 2. On the person of Leblanc several similar bills were found, as well as other bills out of which pieces had been cut.

COUNTY POINTS.

Sardis.

H. Boulden has returned. James Arthur and wife and Jack Arthur and wife, of Burton, are visiting relatives in Shannon. Miss Amanda Trigg has returned from a delightful visit to her friend, Miss Laura Gould, of Emilee. Mrs. Snelling, nee Dulcinea Richardson, Richardson, has been visiting her old friends at Mayslick, but in her "Riverview," the home of Porter Melvin.

Mrs. Elizabeth Forman, relict of Thomas Forman, was buried at Washington, on Sunday last. She was in her seventy-fifth year. Funeral services by Rev. Vardeman.

Elder John S. Sweeney will dedicate the new Christian Church in Olive on the second Sunday in November, after which he will commence a protracted meeting at this place.

Our readers are reminded that the young sisters of the M. E. Church, of this place, will have an oyster festival, on Friday and Saturday nights next, in Arcade Hall. Good music and refreshments of every kind and a most enjoyable time is in prospect. Proceeds to furnish parsonage.

The largest funeral in the history of Shannon took place on Sunday, the 12th instant, when Sir Knight Howard was so beautifully eulogized by his comrades, of the mystic tie. The music by Hau-ke's band was touching and appropriate. The rendition of that lovely song, "Sweet Spirit Hear My Prayer," melted many hearts in sympathetic tears.

The quarterly meetings of the two branches of the Methodist Church at Shannon and Sardis concluded on Sunday last and in consequence the audience at each place were somewhat reduced. Both pulpits were ably filled, the former by Rev. Dr. Walker and the latter by Rev. Howes. We lost by not hearing both on their grand Sunday discourses.

Joseph Yancey Clary, the youngest son of William and Nancy Clary, died Sunday morning, after a brief illness. The tender sympathy of the community goes out in behalf of the bereaved parents. After some appropriate songs and a brief discourse by Rev. Spates, little Josie was laid away in his lovely white casket, watered by the tears of many friends.

Not So Confident.

WASHINGTON, Ky., Oct. 21, 1884.

Editor Bulletin: I don't think our Republican friends are counting quite so much as they were on Mr. Wadsworth's personal popularity being able to make an odious cause appear respectable. No one denies that Mr. Wadsworth is an agreeable, polished gentleman, but does any Democrat suppose for a moment that he will in any way reflect the sentiments of the Democratic party, should he be by any possibility succeed in being elected to Congress. Mr. Wadsworth is one of the most dangerous men we could possibly have there, as by his very attainments he is able to make a wrong measure appear right. Let Democrats see that he does not get there by their votes. X.

Gratitude to the Monopolists.

[From the Utica Observer.]

Corporations may have no souls, but they are never ungrateful to their tools. When Blaine voted in the Senate against Thurman's great anti-monopoly measure, he won the lasting gratitude of every railroad corporation in the country. It is now pretty well established that at least a million dollars were contributed by the railroad kings to the debauchery of Ohio. But Mr. Blaine will find it a fleeting reward.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and affecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Bosanko, Medicine Co., Fiqua, O. Sold by Geo. T. Wood.

George T. Wood, the Druggist, who is always looking after the interest of customers, has now secured the sale of Dr. Bosanko's cough and lung syrup, a remedy that never fails to cure coughs, colds, pains in the chest and all lung affections. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free.
